

Introduction

- Introduction

Introduction

Overview

1. It is used to Maintain Resource types and their principal availability. it is used to calculate the available time in a resource. It allows input of starting time and end time for the slot according to the working days.

Business Case

1. In a Company Resources are classified into some resource types.It is used to separate the resources Based on their uses.
2. Example : Plant , Work center, Main Resources